

Reading

1. Match them up!

Match the types of books or stories and the definitions.

- | | |
|--------------------------|--|
| fantasy story | a story which uses imaginary science or technology, for example robots, aliens or time machines |
| mystery story | a story where some characters or abilities are impossible, for example a dragon or magical powers |
| biography | an imaginary story but one which could happen in real life |
| informational book | a story where something strange happens and the characters have to find the answer |
| science fiction story | a book with facts about a topic, for example animals, science, history, etc. |
| traditional story | a thin book which tells stories with pictures and some writing, and there is usually a new one every week |
| realistic fiction story | a book about a real person's life |
| historical fiction story | a thin book which has lots of articles and photographs, and there is usually a new one every week or month |
| magazine | a story which is set in a real time in the past but the characters are invented or imagined |
| comic | a story which has existed for a long time, for example a fairy tale or a myth |

2. What do you like to read?

Write the types of books in exercise 1 in the box to show what you like to read.

I like to read ...	I don't like to read ...

3. Ask your friends!

What books do your friends like reading? Write four more questions. Then ask your friends and family. If they say yes, put a tick next to the question.

How many ticks have you got for each type of book? Write the type of book, count the ticks and colour that many squares in the line!
